Portland Papers Comment on Sucker Creek Gold Find

The story of a marvellously rich gold strike in Southern Oregon is interesting not only to the persons who thus stumbled upon it, but to all people of Oregon. It is a piece of great good luck to the finders, but it is also a lucky and valuable incident for Oregon. It will attract wide attention to this state and to Southern Oregon in particular. Since one such ledge has been found, may there not be others? Trace, such a discovery always starts out a large number of prospectors, most of whom are doomed to disappointment, but the general result will be good; it will mean more work, more effort, more consumption of products, more faith in Oregon's mineral wealth, and, doubtless, more Oregon gold.

Some people insist dogmatically that there is no such thing in the world as luck or chance; that every person gets ultimately just what he plans and works rightly for and deserves. But the truth of this fine theory is not discernible in such an occurrence as this. For many years placer gold was extracted in large quantities from the beds of streams in this vicinity, on both sides of this ridge, and it was known that there must be a rich ledge in that ridge, from which the placer gold came. Doubtless the region has been prospected by many a more or less hopeful miner; doubtless weeks in the aggregate of tramping through those hills has gone unrewarding; and yet at last a boy, out hunting, and with no thought of finding gold, discovers it in quantities cropping out of the surface, so abundant and easy to obtain that it is said one family of seven persons mercantile out $35,000 in a week. One need not call this luck or chance, if he is determined that there is no such thing; but certainly the chief beneficiaries did not plan and work for this result.

This incident shows that Oregon has not as yet been diligently and thoroughly prospected. If the stories told concerning this ledge are true, it may produce millions, and there may be, and no doubt are, other ledges as rich yet to be discovered. Oregon's mineral wealth is as yet mostly undiscovered. It may be reasonably expected that its gold production, already much larger than it is given credit for, will steadily increase for many years.—Portland Journal.

Bring Your Wife Along

Women are the best judges of dress, their own or the Men's. They know a good thing when they see it, and you may rely firmly on their good judgment.

Bring her with you, by all means, let her help you select your Summer clothes. She'll understand that "genuine goodness" of a Schloss Art-Tailored Suit, better, perhaps, than you. However, you are sure of good treatment here, whether you bring her or not.

The difference in the cost of a Schloss-made Suit and that made by the "merchant tailor" will be enough to open her eyes to the possibilities for money saving. Just think, we sell a suit like either of those shown in the picture at so little a price as

$12.50

The "merchant tailor" would want to charge $25 for a suit not so good in fit, style or quality. Here is a clear saving of $12.50, which your wife can find good use for in adding to her own wardrobe. No wonder she is bent on breaking you of the "merchant tailor" habit.

This label on Schloss made clothes is to protect the wearer. It stands for reputation, uniform excellence and up-to-dateness.

Dear seem quite plentiful in Southern Oregon this season, and have quite perceptibly increased in number during the past few years, presumably on account of the better observance of the game law which has prevailed. Phil Robinson, while riding into town Tuesday morning from his place on Rogue river, a few miles above town, saw a fine, forked horn buck, which stood and stared at him impudently as he passed by. The open season will be on in a short time and the deer will probably be more modest and retiring than.

BURGLAR ENTERS HOUSE Night Prowler Breaks into the Jewel Residence.

A burglar entered the residence of L. L. Jewell at Fifth and A streets Monday night but was frightened away before he secured any valuables. At least nothing of value has been missed from the household on account of his visit. He was first heard by Mrs. Jewell walking on an up-stairs porch and seems to have attempted to enter by that way. Mrs. Jewell went up stairs to ascertain the cause of the disturbance. When she returned she heard the burglar in the kitchen. The latter, probably alarmed at her footsteps, unlocked the kitchen door and fled. He had entered by tearing off the screen from the kitchen window and the marks of his feet were plainly to be seen on the kitchen table which stood against the window.
